

INFERNO MICRO

E-NR: 6310936

Inferno Micro is a next-generation alarm siren, developed to provide powerful protection where it is needed most.

Unbearable sound

Can be connected to all brands and types of alarm systems.

Award-winning design, easily integrated into public spaces and private homes.

Tamper-protected with battery backup.

In addition to functioning as a traditional siren, Inferno Micro also creates an effective sound barrier that confronts the intruder directly at the door. The unbearable sound helps stop the intrusion at a very early stage and makes it difficult to continue the attack. With coverage of up to 35 square meters per unit, Inferno Micro is suitable for everything from single doors to larger protected areas. For more extensive installations, multiple units can be interconnected and work together to cover significantly larger areas with the same high sound level and clear effect.

Inferno Micro is developed for professional security installations where reliability, performance and easy scalability are critical. The result is an alarm siren that not only alerts, but actively helps to hinder intrusion and strengthen the overall perimeter protection.

The presence of an active Inferno Micro complicates criminal activity during the minutes that pass between alarm activation and the arrival of a security company or the police. Its task is to protect the site during this critical time period.

The sound source with the patented sound spectrum generated by Inferno Micro is extremely difficult to locate. This makes it hard for the intruder to eliminate the cause of the discomfort. Despite this, the sound is harmless. According to scientific studies, it does not cause permanent hearing damage.

Inferno Micro is easy to install and well suited for small offices, shops, warehouses and homes, significantly enhancing the effectiveness of an existing security system. Inferno Micro has built-in tamper protection and a battery. The outer housing is made of aluminium and steel, making it very robust and durable.
